WILL QUIZ M'DERMOTT IN CANTON CASE

SLATER HOPING TO
WRING CONFESSION
FROM "KEY FIGURE"

State Offers Life To Accused Man If He Talks

CANTON, O., Oct. 27.—Today has been definitely selected by Ora Slater, Ohio's detective ace, for the denouement in the battle of wits between him and Pat McDermott, which has now waged for more than seventy-two hours.

Slater and Prosecutor C. B. McClintock left for the Canton workhouse, where McDermott is confined, at 9:45 this morning, where the detective will begin his methodical cross-examination of Pat in an effort to secure a confession.

Named as the "key figure" in the slaying of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton News publisher and successful in hiding from police for three months, McDermott, since his arrest, Sunday, which was consummated through the aid of his brothers, has been diskerslating with Slater and Prosecutor C. B. McClintock for a guarantee of immunity in return for turning state's evidence.

McDermott, it has been learned from a reliable source, has demanded that the first-degree murder indictment against him be nolled. His demand has been met with an offer to reduce the indictment to second-degree murder, saving him from the chair even if he did press the trigger which sent Mellett to his death, as has been claimed by the state.

DETECTIVE WAITS

Slater, playing the same sort of waiting game which he used on Jake Nesbitt, Troy wife-slayer, which finally wrung a confession of guilt from Nesbitt, has been content to let seventy-hours pass without visiting McDermott in his solitary cell.

Although Slater announced yesterday that he intended to see the indicted man then, he halted all action pending the return of Bernard McDermott, brother of Pat, who was in Cleveland attempting to discover the luxurious apartment in which Pat claims to have made his hide-away.

Today's complete program of action was mapped out, discussed and re-discussed at a conference behind locked doors in Slater's room.

These two plans were thrown into the discard, however, and it was definitely decided that the investigators definitely commit themselves to Slater's unalterable and, so far, continuously successful methods. It is complete understanding of the psychology of the criminal that has resulted in Slater's solution of many criminal problems in the past two decades of Middle West crime annals.

PAT GAVE WARNING

Authoritative sources reported today that it was Pat McDermott who had called the slain publisher on the telephone a few days before he was slain and warned Mellett that the "jungle" had marked him for its own.

Additional evidence that McDermott was vitally concerned in the death plot was unearthed when it was learned that the "key figure" had written from Philadelphia threatening the life of one of the authorities in charge of the probe.

Today Slater told International News Service that, on his visit to Pat, there will be no jarring notes of shaking fists and loud, raucous voices.

"I'll simply explain to him that it will be for his own good for him to come through and make a clean breast of what he knows," Slater said, "for every advantage he can get of aiding himself."

Although Slater would not commit himself by saying that he would secure a confession today, he said that he was positive that a statement would be forthcoming very soon.

EXCEPTIONS TO RULING DENIED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 27.—Exceptions filed by the Sesquicentennial Exposition Association to the Dauphin County court opinion relative to illegality of Sunday operation of the sesquicentennial celebration at Philadelphia were denied today by the court.

The court's decision decrees that judgment of ouster be entered in accordance with the original opinion of September 16 and that the exhibition association be "ousted from any right, privilege or authority to open, hold or conduct the exposition on the Lord's Day."

Costs of the proceedings were ordered to be paid by the association.

FIRE DESTROYS AMERICAN HOME OF AMBASSADOR TO AUSTRIA

FALMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 27.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Albert H. Washburn, ambassador to Austria, today, causing damage estimated at $200,000.

Ambassador Washburn's 82-year-old father is in a critical condition from near-suffocation by smoke. He was carried through the smoke-filled halls of the mansion by Charles B. Fisher, a caretaker.

SENATOR BESEIGED WITH MANY APPEALS TO PURIFY POLITICS

Reed Receives Letters
From Public And Private Sources

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Inspired by his activity in investigating the Indiana and Illinois senatorial campaigns, all America, apparently, has turned today to Senator James A. Reed, the "Missouri Cyclone," with appeals to purify politics, punish political despots and solve municipal problems.

A shower of requests for slush-fund inquiries, private investigations and public prosecution overtook Reed here as he rested before resuming the federal inquiry into the Ku Klux Klan's activity and the exact relation of Senator James E. Watson, Republican of Indiana, to affairs of the hooded order. The appeals for Reed's intervention came from every section of the country, most of them being forwarded here from Chicago, Indianapolis and Kansas City, where he previously held sessions of his "one man" senatorial slush inquiry.

The appeals asked Reed not only to investigate alleged corruption and slush funds in senatorial campaigns but for him to take his single-handed inquiry around the country for investigations of state and municipal affairs.

From Connecticut came the appeal for another senatorial campaign inquiry, which Reed declined because of the limited time before election day. From Oklahoma came a request for an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan's activity in the state elections, which Reed rejected for a similar reason.

These were "official" requests, while the remainder of the Missourian's mail carried "personal" requests.

YOUTH NEAR DEATH FROM BULLET WOUND

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 27.—Herbert Schotts, 20, of Youngstown, is at the point of death in a hospital here today as the result of a bullet wound in his back.

Schotts, a member of the crew of a tugboat, was said by police to have been discharged by Captain J. H. Pringle, pilot of the boat, whereupon a dispute arose.

Pringle is being held by police but the case probably will go to federal jurisdiction, as the tug was moored to a vessel.

CHARGE WITNESSES IN EVANGELIST CASE BEING CORRUPTED

Verbal Fireworks Expected To Feature Mc-
Pherson Case

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—Anticipating another display of verbal fireworks between prosecution and defense attorneys, hundreds of persons today milled around in the corridors of Judge Blake's court in an effort to gain admission to the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Siefert, all facing conspiracy charges as the aftermath of the alleged kidnapping of the woman evangelist.

The first tilt of the day between opposing attorneys came when Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennison stated yesterday that defense witnesses were being corrupted.

Dennison said he had in mind the collection which was taken at Angelus temple several nights ago and turned over to two Mexican witnesses from Agua Prieta.

After a temporary lull, the warfare broke out again when the state vociferously objected when E. R. Mills, auditor of a San Francisco cafeteria, was asked if a Miss Rachel Wells, the woman Mrs. Siefert claims was to pose as "Miss X," was employed by his firm in 1924-25.

Mills was finally allowed to testify that his records did not show that such a woman was employed.

While Mrs. Elizabeth Frame, a close friend of Mrs. McPherson's was being examined, W. L. Gilbert, the evangelist's attorney, sought to introduce an autopsy report on the death of Ed Harrison, a diver, who died following his attempt to find the body of Mrs. McPherson, who at that time was thought drowned.

Again state attorneys protested hotly. The argument between opposing attorneys finally became so warm that Judge Blake stated he would take drastic action unless the hearing could proceed in a more orderly manner.

It was learned today that Judge Blake had received three more threatening letters, presumably from fanatics. They have been placed in the hands of officers for investigation.

LAWYERS TO APPEAL LOVE PILL VERDICT

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27.—Attorneys for Ermil "Frenchy" Balanescu, convicted of manslaughter here last week in connection with the death of Dorothy Kirk, to whom he is alleged to have administered "love pills," are preparing to carry the case to the appellate court.

Balanescu late yesterday lost his fight for a new trial when the motion by his counsel was overruled.

The youthful medical student has thirty days in which to file his appeal.

ABOARD QUEEN MARIE'S SPECIAL TRAIN AT MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—Queen Marie, of Rumania, arrived in a country today where she may be wined as well as dined in public with perfect propriety.

In Montreal the government guides the consumption of alcohol beverages merely by controlling its sale. Her majesty comes from a land where sipping the fermented liquid of the grape is a national habit and not an illegality.

While in prohibition America, Queen Marie was punctilious in observing the law of the nation entertaining her, her attaches declare. Evidence contributed to uphold this statement is the presence of a model American soda fountain aboard the royal train.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH AT SEA ENDED SPECTACULAR CAREER

Man Who Rose From "Hot Dog" Peddler to Millionaire "Fell" Through Port-Hole Of Majestic—Cause Unsolved.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A strange inquest in Southampton when the tale of the sea was told today, of the spectacular death which ended the equally spectacular rise of D. P. Davis, the man who in a few years changed from a "hot dog" peddler to one of Florida's wealthiest real estate operators.

Davis was lost overboard from the liner Majestic on the morning of October 13. The events leading up to and following his tragic death were told today by Dr. J. C. H. Beaumont, ship's doctor of the liner, which has returned from Europe.

There had been a party of some sort in Davis' rooms the night preceding the tragedy. Finally, most of the guests left. It was almost daylight. At 5:15, a woman's scream was heard, attendants and passengers rushed to the Davis stateroom and found that the millionaire had fallen out of the port-hole. The ship was stopped and circled about for an hour, but no sign of the man could be found.

That was the story told at the

COMMANDER OF CANTON FORCES DIES IN HOSPITAL OF WOUNDS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—General Chang Kai-Shek, commander of the Cantonese forces allied with General Wu Pei-Fu, is dead, according to a dispatch from Shanghai to the Central News agency.

Announcement of the southern war lord's death in a hospital at Changsha, from wounds, the dispatch stated, was made today by General Sun Chuan-Fang, commander of the Northern Yangtze army, who stated that Chang Kai-Shek's Russian chief of staff, General Galen, also was seriously wounded.

Iaff, all facing conspiracy charges the Cantonese troops have suffered a defeat and are now retreating toward Canton.

"Her majesty frequently asks for 'scones,'" McCullough asserted proudly. "She is a fine lady. Every time she sees me, she says good morning or good afternoon."

Only William Martin, the cook, has a grievance.

"I want to feed her majesty well but she eats very lightly," he complained.

The royal party will stay in Montreal and delve into its historic background until midnight tonight, when the train leaves for Ottawa, Canada, has shown less curiosity and more seriousness than America in welcoming Queen Marie.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER COMMIT SUICIDE BY LEAPING TO DEATH

Jump Eleven Floors From
New York Hotel
In Pact

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Police said today that Miss Dorothy Warschauer, 30, who, with her mother, plunged to her death last evening from the eleventh floor of the Martha Washington Hotel before the eyes of thousands of horrified spectators, was at one time an inmate of an institution for the insane at Islip, N. Y.

Worry over her daughter's illness probably caused the mother, Mrs. Bertha Warschauer, 51, to make the death leap, according to a theory advanced to police by Dr. H. Schuemann, the Warschauers' family physician.

Mother and daughter, stylishly dressed, arrived at the hotel at five o'clock in the afternoon. Just thirty minutes later, passersby in the street saw Mrs. Warschauer leap from the eleventh floor. The body, turning and twisting in the air, crashed on top of an electric sign hung over the hotel entrance.

Thousands of pedestrians, attracted to the scene, were further horrified when the daughter smugly stepped to the window and poised herself for the death leap. The spectators stood still in helpless fascination but Miss Marjorie La Plante, Montreal trained nurse, who occupied a room on the ninth floor, rushed to a small balcony in front of her window just as Miss Warschauer jumped.

Not a fragment of evidence has been uncovered in the death yesterday of Lily Croy, 28, beautiful school teacher, whose mutilated body was found in the shadow of a school after the clubber had swooped upon her from work late last night. She had been assaulted after a terrific encounter.

The death of Mrs. Alden differed from that of the four unfortunate others, who were clubbed to death and their bodies frightfully mutilated, ostensibly by a degenerate, in each of the previous eight assaults, a club was employed by the clubber.

Rewards totaling $2,600 have been offered by civic organizations for capture of the madman. Inspector of Detectives Haas has been recalled from his vacation to assume charge of tracking the maniac.

With every citizen on the alert for the brute, Chief of Police Harry Jennings today expressed the fear that, due to extreme nervous tension, innocent persons might be too quick on the trigger and cause result.

He issued a statement this morning asking citizens to remain calm.

Hundreds of American Legion members and Boy Scouts have volunteered for police duty. Last night every block of the city was patrolled by at least one guardian of the peace.

BEGAN YEAR AGO

The outrages began here last November, when the clubber beat the brains of two victims into pulp. He attacked two others, who recovered. For two weeks a reign of terror existed.

When one thousand former service men formed a vigilance committee tonight on behalf of the Republican candidates, while Colonel Ralph Cole, of Findlay, was at Greenfield.

The killer began his campaign again last January. Two more were slain and three severely assaulted. This series of assaults ended when police rounded up and reincarcerated all patients who had been discharged and cured from Insane Institutions.

Competition has become especially keen among Ohio entries according to the advance reports of county agents, and they are planning to use the next few weeks in putting the finishing touches on feeding and training the steers that will compete for the big list of honor awards and prizes.

This year's exhibition will be staged with the co-operation of the agricultural extension departments of the state universities in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. What Tennessee Cities
Have Discovered About
Concrete Street Paving

Fifteen years ago some of the leading cities of Tennessee were just beginning to learn the merits of concrete street paving.

During this period traffic has grown tremendously. Many Tennessee cities have found out that only concrete will stand up under the loads and speeds of modern traffic. They have found out that concrete pavement costs almost nothing to maintain. They have learned that it is safe for all traffic, in any weather. And that this handsome pavement dresses up any community where used.

Tennessee cities today have a total of 1,500,000 square yards of this modern, permanent pavement. This will be greatly increased during 1926. Last year 27 of these cities placed contracts for additional concrete paving.

Concrete streets will bring new prosperity to any city or town.

WILD ACCUSATION OF AMERICAN MADE AS GREATEST FRENCH DETECTIVES SEEK MATCHLESS, PRICELESS PINK DIAMOND

Marshal Petain, a leader in the search for the stolen $2,500,000 gem, the Louvre, which houses France's greatest art treasures, and sketches illustrating how thieves worked.

By NICHOLAS BOFA

PARIS, Oct. 27.—France has a case worthy of the combined talents of Arsene Lupin, Sherlock Holmes, Cleek, Craig Kennedy, Scotland Yard and the United States secret service. The latter two agencies actually have been called on to help in the greatest thief hunt in modern times.

All France—and Europe, too, is stirred over the disappearance of the greatest of diamonds, the pink-hued "Le Grande Conde," which $2,500,000 could not buy. The gem is, or was, the property of the government.

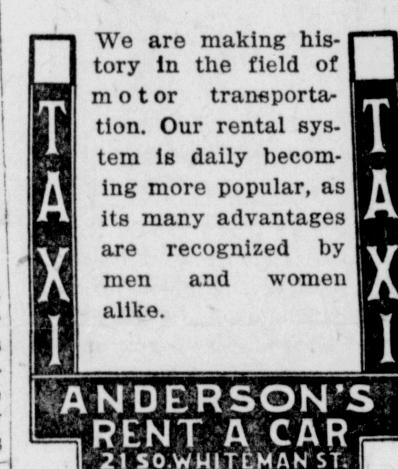

Fear is being felt that the bold thieves will cut up the priceless jewel before detectives are able to corner them, for of course they never could sell the gem as a whole; every jeweler in the world would recognize it instantly.

The heart-shaped pink diamond is one inch high and three-quarters of an inch across. It is a dazzling object in daylight.

It remained in the Conde family for generations and was bequeathed in 1830 by the last of the house of the Duc d'Aumale, heir to the last of the Condes.

American Implicated? Marshal Petain, who was appointed one of the curators after his recent campaign in Morocco, is assisting in directing the investigation. Associated with him are the greatest detectives of France. They know they have the greatest thieves in France to catch.

The intimation is made in an ad.

A LETTER OF INTEREST

To The Voters of Greene County

I want to state that I am in no way connected with what is known as the Gowdy-Marshall faction; in fact, I voted against Judge Gowdy for election to his first term, for the reason that I was under the impression that his election would mean delay in judicial proceedings. My experience with Judge Gowdy has convinced me that I was wrong in my surmise. In all my experience at the Bar I have never practiced before a more painstaking and conscientious judge, and one who gives those who were opposed to his election just as fair treatment as those who voted for him.

I think it is uncalled for and unwise for any faction to bring out a candidate against him for a second term. His conduct on the bench and his judicial findings have been such that he deserves to have a second term without the trouble and expense of a campaign. I think that any faction, men, or set of men, who will institute wholly unwarranted proceedings in the Probate Court in order to convey to the public, by innuendo, that Judge Gowdy is dishonest, such act is an outrage on public decency and deserves the condemnation of every well thinking man and woman.

The articles published by the Cedarville paper, in which the statement is made that Judge Gowdy is drawing a salary of $6,000.00 from the County, is in harmony with other statements of that paper—absolutely untrue and without foundation. Every one who is familiar with the compensation of judges of this County knows that the salary of the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas is only $3,700.00, and that the County only pays a small portion of this—$700.00, I think. And his other complaint, that Judge Gowdy goes off to other counties and neglects the business of this County, is wholly without foundation. From personal experience I know that the business of this County is not neglected; on the other hand, Judge Gowdy is prompt in assigning and hearing cases. Instead of any paper trying to censure him for going to other counties, this County should feel proud that we have a Judge in whose honesty and ability the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court has such confidence that he selects him to try cases in other counties, a duty which he must perform when called upon by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Gowdy is entitled to a second term, and the people of this County cannot afford to defeat Judge Gowdy.

Just such politics is what has brought into this country such conditions as prevail in Chicago and other cities; and it will continue until the good people of the country, by their votes, stamp their disapproval upon it.

The people of the County should be interested in TWO things:

FIRST: To have a man on the Common Pleas bench who is qualified and whose decisions will stand in the higher courts.

SECOND: To see to it that a man qualified for the position is not defeated by slander and dirty politics.

If there ever was a time in the history of the nation when fitness, in its broadest sense, was required of a judge that time is now. The capable, efficient and honest judge is one of the nation's most valuable assets. Judge Gowdy measures up to the highest standards required of a judge. It appears that Greene County is to witness opposition to Judge R. L. Gowdy for a second term for which he has been regularly nominated at the Republican Primary election last August; a right that has always been accorded to capable and efficient officials asking re-election as a reward for efficient service. There is no reason why this unwritten law of political custom should be reversed in Judge Gowdy's case; but every reason why it should be upheld by loyal support of his candidacy.

LIE'S STORY

TODAY IN MUSIC

The story of life from the cradle to the grave, was told exclusively in music featuring the program of the Xenia Woman's Music Club, Midway afternoon. The Misses Frence and Margaret Steele were hostesses and the second division under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. McGehee, president of the music club gave a charming program.

Miss Jane Ninde, of Dayton, was guest of the club and added much to the pleasure of the afternoon by her fine rendition of several piano numbers.

Infancy, youth, middle age, old age and finally the grave were depicted in the program of carefully selected numbers.

Miss Marjorie Street opened the program by playing Brahms' love "Cradle Song." This was followed by a group of three songs by Mrs. Graham Bryson, "Where Did You Come From, Baby Dear," "Buck," "Baby," Bertrand Brown, and "Sonny Boy," Pearl Durand.

The second group of songs by Miss Harriet McCarty took the infant one step further in "It's Such a Little Feller," Dichtmont, and "Animal Crackers," Hageman.

Miss Marjorie Street appeared group of young songs, with "When's Music Box," Carrie Jacobs Bond, and "The Dancing Doll," Poldin.

Mrs. Raymond Wolf opened the group of young songs, with "When the Heart is Young," by Buck. The next was a group of love lyrics to have been sang by Mrs. Steele Poague, who through illness was unable to attend the meeting. The group assigned to Mrs. Poague consisted of: "To You," Speaks; "All For You," Easthope Martin and "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," Pate.

Miss Jane Ninde contributed the next number "Liebestraume" by Liszt, and graciously accorded an encore, "I Stood on Top of the World," Carl Beacher.

Mrs. Raymond Wolf sang again in another group of two, nuptial songs: "Love's Coronation," F. Alyard, and "All the World in Love," Woodman.

The bridal music was played by Mrs. Alice Ruthrauff, "Festout" and "The Bridal Song" by the Danish composer, Jensen. Miss Minde gave an instrumental number, "Grandmother Tells a Story," Kullah. "Requiem," by Homer and "Life" by Oley Speaks, sung by Mrs. John M. Davidson concluded the program.

Mrs. W. H. McGehee will be hostess at the next meeting of the club, November 15, when the program will be devoted to Ohio composers.

MITCHELL-STUFF NUPTIALS IN CINCINNATI

Miss Beatrice Stuff daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Stoff, of Cincinnati, formerly of Xenia, became the bride of Mr. Lee Mitchell of Xenia in a service which was read at the home of her parents' Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

The Rev. Frederick McMillen pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church officiated, in the presence of a company of near relatives of the bridal pair.

Miss Mary Jane Mitchell, of Miamisburg, cousin of the bridegroom and Mr. Joseph Worley of Cincinnati were the bridal attendants. Mrs. Margaret Moylan, of New York, aunt of the bride played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, as the wedding party entered the room where the service was read.

The bride, who is an unusually lovely girl, was especially attractive in her frock of white satin and maline, with tight sleeveless bodice and bouffant skirt. She carried a shower of bride's roses. Miss Mitchell wore a frock of yellow satin fashioned along the same lines of that worn by the bride and she carried yellow roses. She wore gold slippers.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served, the bride's table being decorated in yellow and white carrying out a color arrangement used throughout the rooms.

LEGION AUXILIARY HEARS INTERESTING TALK

Mrs. D. W. Cosley was a guest of the American Legion auxiliary at its regular meeting in post hall Monday evening, and gave a delightful talk touching upon different phases of her recent world tour. As of special interest to the auxiliary she described the battlefields of France and the American Cemetery which she visited, Palestine and the tomb of the kings in Egypt.

"RISING UP" TIME

General Pershing told a meeting of World War veterans in Philadelphia a few nights ago that this country is inviting disaster by letting the army go some thousands below the pay strength and several more thousands below the authorized strength. He asked what was the sense of saving a few millions now and incurring the risk of having to spend billions in a time of emergency. He said the world was not as friendly, or as secure, as those who advocated a low army strength represented it as being, and that this was not a safe time to let defenses fall to pieces.

He turned, then, to the disorderly and lawless state of the times, and said the increase of lawlessness was a disgrace to the country. "How long this will continue," he said "will depend upon the people themselves. We may as well be warned of our fate unless good citizens rise up and demand a change."

Pershing is used to dealing with facts, and his words warrant attention, both as to military and civil defenses.

The cause of the two perils which he points out is the same, and it is opposite of that "rising up" which he demands as a necessity to a cure.

A defective system of military defense and a defective civic character upon which the evil of lawlessness grows, come, alike, from a "letting down." Something has happened to the morale, since the days when a determined and unite sentiment supported Pershing in his campaign overseas.

It is like Pershing to demand a "rising up." It could be hoped that in this particular he still carried the power to command.

"MENTAL DISARMAMENT"

"Mental disarmament" was recommended by a speaker at a Piqua, Ohio, meeting Tuesday night as the only method of getting rid of any feeling of antagonism between the business man of the town and the business man of the rural section of the community, which is what the farmer really is. By mental disarmament, was meant a laying aside of prejudice and a willingness to accept the other fellow on a basis of confidence in his good intentions until one is convinced of the contrary. The speaker—a practical farmer living on a farm—gave testimony as to how successful this proved in his own case and convinced his auditors that sympathetic understanding is the only solution of such antagonism.

Some day mental disarmament will be applied to international relationships and not until this comes about will there follow material disarmament on a basis of sincerity. Such material disarmament to date has been largely fictitious, agreements being reached along certain lines, the parties to the agreements then turning their attention to outdoing their possible opponents in future wars in more modern methods of warfare. When the people of the nations learn to respect the people of other nations as their equals, regardless of varying customs, then and only then will disarmament become real.

Each person really interested in doing his infinitesimal bit toward bringing about universal peace can best advance that cause by putting himself in a sympathetic attitude toward the people of other nations through seeking to understand — although he may not agree with their viewpoints. Having once effected his own mental disarmament he will be an active missionary for the spread of that attitude and when it shall have become the attitude of the majority either numerically or in influence, then material disarmament will surely follow.

GERMANY MAKES GOOD

According to Jacob Gould Sherman, American Ambassador to Berlin, Germany is prepared to meet her $300,000,000 obligation to the allies during the coming fiscal year with the same promptness that marked her payments last year.

This is good news, and there is no doubt that Germany, with her industrious people at work and free from heavy military burdens, is well on the road to rehabilitation. But it cannot be taken as proof that everything is rosy and that prosperity is coming easily.

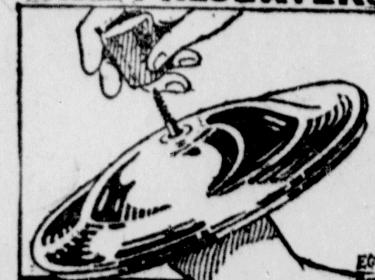

It must be borne in mind that Germany has floated heavy loans abroad—and in financial affairs "abroad" nowadays means the United States. So some of the money Germany has borrowed in America has gone to pay reparations to the allies, and in time will come back to the United States in the form of payments on account of war loan settlements.

Germany's present Dawes plan payments are the minimum. In a few years the annual charge will amount to $625,000,000, and the interest on money borrowed in the meantime will have to be met. Germany's condition is good, but some of her hardest problems lie ahead. Her present promptness cannot be taken as proof that from now on life in Germany is going to be soft.

A disaster occurred that cost ninety lives — chicken lives—the fowls being the property of Ed Lightisher. The loss resulted when a brooding machine in his green house burned.

The crop of apples this year, for this section of the country in general, is almost unprecedented.

Hereafter every child in the public schools will be required to provide himself with a drinking cup. It is an anti-germ edict.

The Theatre

A poly-poly figure has assisted some players into the movies; it has skidded many more completely out of pictures. Thomas R. Curran, of International News Service, says:

Roscoe Arbuckle, at one time the leading film comedian, and the late John Bunny were boosted to stardom by their expansive girth. Walter Hiers, Hughie Mack and the late Willard Louis were also aided, rather than handicapped, by their rotundity. "Tin" Goford, playing Hal Roach and Warner Brothers comedies, isn't held back at all by his 400 pounds. But if a player in romantic parts shows an incipient double chin, he or she, topples from the heights like a dislodged flowerpot.

Mary Miles Minter, a star at 18, admitted that difficulty in controlling her weight induced her retirement from the films. Nita Naldi, once an irresistible siren, has had a long flight out of pictures against superfluous poundage. She is reported now to be preparing to return to the screen. Barbara LaMarr's fight against fat so weakened her that she sickened and died.

Recognizing the inevitable and unpleasant fate of actors and actresses who lose their lissome silhouettes, several producers have inserted "weight clauses" in contracts. If a player passes a certain standard weight, the contract is automatically voided. Usually, however, the problem of weight is set by tact agreement.

Pola Negri, weighing 122 pounds has set 125 as her maximum. Bebe Daniels hovers around 120 and Clara Bow varies from 100 to 105. Lois Wilson and Florence Vidor maintain their weight at 117 pounds. Esther Ralston weighs 125 and hopes to stay there. Joan Crawford, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player, exercises three times a day to keep her weight at 120 pounds. Renee Adoree, who is featured in the new Cosmopolitan production, "The Flaming Forrest," feels that she must keep below 115. When her weight starts creeping up, the little French actress goes on an orange juice diet.

Pauline Starke diets regularly to remain at 115 pounds. Once every two months, for a ten-day period, she eats nothing but hard-boiled eggs, tomatoes and milk. Carmel Myers relies upon the starch bath, taken once every four days, as a curative measure for fat. She weighs 125 pounds. Mary Philbin and Laura La Plante, the Universal stars, weigh 105 and 110, respectively, and they would nullify their contracts if they became more than five pounds heavier.

Time is my enemy. All day He holds an hourly wisp of hay Before my nose in jest sublime: "Hurry, and you'll be through on time!"

He spoils my puddings, custards, pies, He wheedles me with blatant lies: "There's time to make pineapple fluff." But ah, there's never time enough;

And yet, when I am all tired out, Time sometimes leaves an hour about, An hour with sudden freedom blest, To give me unexpected rest.

And when I ruin cookies, cakes, Time covers up my scorched mistakes When kind forgetfulness he sends. And then we are the best of friends!

MORE ABOUT OLDTOWN

Oldtown is memorable as being the first point invaded from the Kentucky side of the river in July, 1779.

Colonel Bowman arrived here with 160 men in the night under cover, but the attack next morning was so badly managed that a retreat was ordered.

The Indians, becoming the aggressors, overtook and surrounded them near Gladys, on what was formerly known as Churchill Jones' entry, and partly owned by a Mrs. Lydia Stanfield.

The situation was critical, as Indian reinforcements were expected.

The advice, generalship and courage of Colonel Logan saved them.

Mounting some of the bravest men on baggage horses he made a successful charge and opened a way for the retreat. Bowman lost nine men and a few wounded.

In all accounts of this expedition it is stated that Blackfish was killed here, but that is not true. That noted chief was killed in Kentucky. He had broken into a cabin, and while engaged in a struggle on the floor with the owner, his daughter seized a butcher knife and stabbed him through the heart.

The talk was about new gods. My hostess had just finished a book about them. She was complaining about her publisher. It seems he didn't like the god she conceived. He wanted changes made in the manuscript.

"Imagine!" she cried. "He wants me to remodel, alter, my new god!"

I agreed it was rather a stupid and unusual request. All gods should be presented just as they come from the brain of man—woman.

Answer: Carrot Marmalade: —

Pare and grind enough carrots to fill a quart measure twice. Put this amount of the vegetable in a saucepan with six cups of granulated sugar and enough cold water to cover; bring to the boil and let simmer till thick, then add the juice and rind of three lemons. Let continue to cook slowly till the carrots are tender and the marmalade juicy. Then turn into hot, sterilized jelly glasses, cool, and cover with melted paraffine wax. (To make this marmalade a close imitation of orange marmalade, let the two quarts of ground raw carrots stand overnight mixed with the juice and grated rind of two large oranges then proceed as above described.)

Central Gridders To Fight Withrow By Air Game

COACH KOLB'S PETS EXPECT VICTORY BY OVERHEAD PLAYING

Famed Air Attack Best Bet—Goal Still Un-crossed

When the referee's whistle starts Withrow and Central High School elevens charging against each other in the great horseshoe stadium of the Cincinnati high school Friday afternoon, hopes of the local "wonder team" will rest on its famed aerial attack.

Central High on the strength of five successive victories this year, may be installed as a slight favorite. Xenia is one of the few teams in the state at present that can respond to the roll call of the unbeaten and more than that the local goal line is still uncrossed.

Withrow and Xenia have never met on the gridiron and so the Cincinnati Tigers are a somewhat unknown quantity. The Queen City team's season record in 1926 has been none too impressive but the down-trodden elevens have been meeting a higher class of teams.

The Friday game will begin at 2 o'clock, Eastern Standard or Cincinnati time, which will be 1 o'clock Xenia time.

Coach Victor Kolb counted noses this week and finds all his men in fine shape. The coach is anxious to take his entire squad of twenty players to Cincinnati and for this reason offers of automobile conveyance will be gladly accepted, he announces.

The local squad is easing off in its preparation for the game. Coach Kolb is goading his players to more serious efforts in the way of practice as he fears the Tigers will prove a troublesome foe.

A win over Withrow will allow Xenia to enjoy the distinction of having achieved the greatest victory of the season. At any rate the local eleven is determined to show the Cincinnati boys some samples of the ingredients of a high-powered offensive style of play that turned back the O. S. and S. O. Home, Greenfield, Greenville, Washington C. H., and Troy in succession this season.

GREATEST GRID GAMES OF THE PAST

MAULBETZCH BATTERS HARVARD LINE

1914—Harvard 7, Michigan 0.

Johnny Maulbetsch split Harvard's mighty lines to pieces, hammered yard after yard off tackle, made first down after first down and still the famous Haughton machine won that memorial game of October 31, 1914, because the Crimson thrice held on the very threshold of the goal line.

Although Michigan was defeated 7 to 0, that game has gone down in history as furnishing one of the most spectacular exhibitions of straight line plunging ever witnessed.

Maulbetsch was superb that afternoon. Running low and hard, he dived through the Harvard line.

THIRTY-THREES TO PLAY PIQUA ELEVEN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Piqua has been scheduled to provide the "Thirty-threes" with a football game Sunday afternoon at Cincinnati Ave. Park following the unexpected cancellation of the Columbus Firemen Spikes Wednesday morning.

A comparison of various records this season among independent football teams in this section tends to make Piqua a slight favorite over Xenia Sunday.

This conclusion is arrived at by mathematics. The locals could do no better than tie the Dayton Red Wings, Piqua, and Sidney played a scoreless tie, Sidney defeated the Red Wings 13 to 0, indicating the Red Wings, 13 to 0, indicating well known under dog Sunday on the basis of form.

Piqua's last game with a Xenia eleven three years ago resulted in a 3 to 0 defeat for the Locals and avenging that defeat is the goal of the "Thirty-threes."

The local squad will hold a signal drill and practice at Cincinnati Ave. Park Thursday night from 7 to 8:30 o'clock, it is announced.

FRED CLARKE QUITS JOB WITH PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 27.—The last rumblings of the flare-up in the ranks of the Pittsburgh Pirates last season, which many fans believe cost them the pennant, were heard here today as a meeting of the club board of directors was called for tomorrow afternoon to consider the resignation of Fred Clarke, central figure in the controversy.

Clarke mailed his resignation as assistant manager, vice president and director, to President Barney Dreyfuss from his home in Windfield, Kansas. As Dreyfuss is the major stockholder, the meeting of the board of directors to accept the resignation was considered as a mere formality.

Clarke was the sixth member of the Pirates to leave the club since the club dissension came to a head.

While we of the rural districts are enjoying the past few years many privileges not heretofore possible, it seems to me that not one of the advantages we now enjoy is of more importance to us than a library made so easily accessible. When we stop to think how much such a library would mean, compared to other lately acquired privileges that we value, especially when we consider the comparatively trivial cost of such library service, we wonder why we have deprived ourselves of it so long.

After enjoying for a few years the benefits of a library arrangement of this kind, we would, I believe, be just as reluctant to part with it as with our telephones, our rural mail delivery, our radios, etc., which cost many times more.

Beaver Creek Township is proud of her record in educational matters, and I expect to see a big majority voted here next Tuesday for the Greene County Library District.

Yours truly,
E. J. FERGUSON,

LETTER TO LIBRARY BOARD BOOSTS PLAN FOR DISTRICT LAW

Among the letters received by the Board of Governors of the Greene County Library, commanding the proposed District Library plan, which will be voted on November 2, is the following:

R. R. 7, Xenia, Ohio,
October 26, 1926.
Board of Governors of Greene County Library, Xenia, Ohio.

As a resident of Beaver Creek Twp., I have been deeply interested in the Greene County Library District to be voted on next Tuesday.

While we of the rural districts are enjoying the past few years many privileges not heretofore possible, it seems to me that not one of the advantages we now enjoy is of more importance to us than a library made so easily accessible. When we stop to think how much such a library would mean, compared to other lately acquired privileges that we value, especially when we consider the comparatively trivial cost of such library service, we wonder why we have deprived ourselves of it so long.

Community Chest Drive Committee Appointed

Personnel Secret for Time —Will Meet Soon Is Word

LUTHERANS PLAN TO HOLD ANNIVERSARY OF LUTHER SERVICE

First Lutheran Church, W. Main St., will take part in the 409th anniversary of the Lutheran denomination with special services, next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Carl Engelhard has announced. An illustrated lecture will be given on the life of Martin Luther by Dr. Paul Heisey, of Wittenberg College, Springfield.

Four hundred and nine years ago Martin Luther inaugurated the modern era of the world's history with his ninety-five theses which he nailed to the door of Castle Church in Wittenberg, Germany, Oct. 31, 1517. That event, which is celebrated each year by the Lutheran Church, marks the beginning of the Protestant movement, which influence has been world wide.

One of the outstanding principles of the Reformation for which Luther fought was the necessity for the common people to have the Scriptures in their own tongue. Erasmus, in the preface of his Greek New Testament, published in 1516, had expressed the hope that the Bible might be translated into the languages of all peoples. Luther gave to the German people the New Testament in the vernacular in 1522, which was the basis of the work of Tyndale who protected the first printed English New Testament in 1526.

Another great principle of Luther is that of "justification by faith." Reviving the old Pauline doctrine long obscured by medieval practices he heralded the message that "Salvation is 'not by works but every man should accept it the gift of God.'" The doctrine of the universal priesthood of believers is still another contribution of Luther. Every Christian he taught has access to the throne of grace without the mediation of any man. Every man also has the right of private judgment which assured true liberty.

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

CHAPTER 38 HAVANA

Philip Luella, in unusually soft and romantic mood, dreamt in the moon-flooded patio of the hotel, the subject of her thoughts was considerably nearer than she had imagined.

Philip Andover, indeed, was walking along the sea-wall of Havana at that very moment with none other than her uncle's secretary, Mary Forrest.

Lots of other people walked there, too, in the enchanted moonlight; for Cubans disdain sleep, and love to be abroad at night.

"Suppose the Wades return earlier than they intended?" suggested Mary rather tremulously, and feeling greatly daring. "Suppose—"

"Suppose they found me on your balcony?" laughed her companion, holding her more tightly by the arm. "That would be even worse than this, wouldn't it?" And then, adding, giving her a warm look: "Don't worry, dear. Even if they do get back to the hotel a little sooner, they'll only think you've gone to bed."

"But if Mrs. Wade or Luella should tap on my door—?"

"In that case, he replied, still gay and smiling, "we should just have to beard the dragonesses. We'd have to tell them that we love each other, you and I. You wouldn't mind so awfully, would you, Mary?"

She was vexed that she had broached this subject, particularly when tomorrow morning his eyes would rest upon the property that he had just missed inheriting.

They turned through the Plaza de Armas inwards to the town. The whiteness of the buildings seemed, in themselves, and without the aid of electricity, to illuminate the darkness.

They went along Obispo Street, the narrowest and quaintest thoroughfare that Mary had ever walked upon. The pavements were extraordinarily inscribed, and as for the road itself, one could almost shake hands across its width.

The tiny street was crowded.

The open shops had all the fascination of Aladdin's cave. Lights streamed out from them on walls of blue and rose and yellow.

Philip and Mary stopped to inspect the merchandise of coral and diamonds. There were little sugary cakes set temptingly on cafes, too, with rows of tiny glass shelves in the windows. And shops with Spanish shawls, extraordinarily lovely, riotous in color.

"They remind me of a beautiful, capricious woman," Philip said.

They went into one of the little stores to look at them. There was a white one, of a heavy crepe de Chine, enormous scarlet roses on it with calyxes of orange and gamboge. He thought it suited Mary, and if she hadn't stopped him, he would certainly have bought it for her, though its price was high. "Or this green shawl with the white flowers—or again the blue?" He wanted her to have one.

But she shook her head.

"When would I have an opportunity to wear such a glorious thing?" she asked, when they were on their way again. "It's awfully kind and generous of you, but it would be inappropriate." She didn't add her true thought—that it would be inappropriate to his pocket-book. Sensitive he was. She wouldn't hurt him for the world.

He said: "The farm is only a matter of thirty miles away. It won't take long to run in by motor-car." Then he added: "As a matter of fact, I'm rather counting on your coming to the hacienda. Mr. Wade is doing a novel with a Cuban setting, and the place would be invaluable to him for local color."

"You're sure that you'll be there?" asked Mary, with a rising glow of warm anticipation—even though she didn't like his sister-in-law.

"Of course. I understand the surroundings are quite lovely. You will come, won't you, Mary?" She nodded.

"If the Wades will take me."

"Ah, that was the real reason I invited them. Poor Mrs. Wade is rather tiresome, though I quite like Cyrus." He gave her arm a tiny pressure.

She inquired, tentatively:

"Do you think your sister-in-law will want us?"

His face clouded.

"Oh, she isn't such a bad sort. You don't have to see much of her. Yes, of course she'll welcome you, as friends of mine."

"And will you be staying there for long, yourself?" The Wades were restless folk, and in a few days' time she and her employer and his wife might be settling sail for Jamaica, for all she knew of

Dimples

What can I do?

O, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?

If I could only find something that would clean up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?

Is that you talking? If it is, just don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red-blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite, builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

WILL QUIZ M'DERMOTT IN CANTON CASE

SLATER HOPING TO
WRING CONFESSION
FROM "KEY FIGURE"

State Offers Life To Accused Man If He Talks

CANTON, O., Oct. 27.—Today has been definitely selected by Ora Slater, Ohio's detective ace, for the denouement in the battle of wits between him and Pat McDermott, which has now waged for more than seventy-two hours.

Slater and Prosecutor C. B. McClintock left for the Canton workhouse, where McDermott is confined, at 9:45 this morning, where the detective will begin his methodical cross-examination of Pat in an effort to secure a confession.

Named as the "key figure" in the slaying of Don R. Mellett, crusading Canton News publisher and successful in hiding from police for three months, McDermott, since his arrest, Sunday, which was consummated through the aid of his brothers, has been diskerning with Slater and Prosecutor C. B. McClintock for a guarantee of immunity in return for turning state's evidence.

McDermott, it has been learned from a reliable source, has demanded that the first-degree-murder indictment against him be nolled. His demand has been met with an offer to reduce the indictment to second-degree murder, saving him from the chair even if he did press the trigger which sent Mellett to his death, as has been claimed by the state.

DETECTIVE WAITS

Slater, playing the same sort of waiting game which he used on Jake Nesbit, Troy wife-slayer, which finally wrung a confession of guilt from Nesbit, has been content to let seventeen hours pass without visiting McDermott in his solitary cell.

Although Slater announced yesterday that he intended to see the indicted man then, he halted all action pending the return of Bernard McDermott, brother of Pat, who was in Cleveland attempting to discover the luxurious apartment in which Pat claims to have made his hide-away.

Today's complete program of action was mapped out, discussed and re-discussed at a conference behind locked doors in Slater's room.

These "X" plans were thrown into the discard, however, and it was definitely decided that the investigators definitely commit themselves to Slater's unalterable and, so far, continuously successful method. It is complete understanding of the psychology of the criminal that has resulted in Slater's solution of many criminal's problems in the past two decades of Middle West crime annals.

PAT GAVE WARNING

Authoritative sources reported today that it was Pat McDermott who had called the slain publisher on the telephone a few days before he was slain and warned Mellett that the "jungle" had marked him for its own.

Additional evidence that McDermott was vitally concerned in the death plot was unearthed when it was learned that the "key figure" had written from Philadelphia threatening the life of one of the authorities in charge of the probe.

Today Slater told International News Service that, on his visit to Pat, there will be no jarring notes of shaking fists and loud, raucous voices.

"I'll simply explain to him that it will be for his own good for him to come through and make a clean breast of what he knows," Slater said, "for every advantage he can get of aiding himself."

Although Slater would not commit himself by saying that he would secure a confession today, he said that he was positive that a statement would be forthcoming very soon.

EXCEPTIONS TO RULING DENIED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 27.—Exceptions filed by the Sesquicentennial Exposition Association to the Dauphin County court opinion relative to illegality of Sunday operation of the sesquicentennial celebration at Philadelphia were denied today by the court.

The court's decision decrees that judgment of ouster be entered in accordance with the original opinion of September 16 and that the exhibition association be "ousted from any right, privilege or authority to open, hold or conduct the exposition on the Lord's Day."

Costs of the proceedings were ordered to be paid by the association.

FIRE DESTROYS A MERICAN HOME OF AMBASSADOR TO AUSTRIA

FALMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 27—Employees, Ambassador Washburn and other occupants of the home narrowly escaped being trapped. Mrs. Washburn and her son were not at home.

A wardrobe valued at $25,000 which Mrs. Washburn had planned to take to Austria when she and her husband sailed for Europe on November 11 was completely destroyed. Not a piece of the home furnishings was saved.

Police and fire officials were conducting an investigation on the theory that the fire was of incendiary origin.

CHARGE WITNESSES IN EVANGELIST CASE BEING CORRUPTED

Verbal Fireworks Expected To Feature Mc-
Pherson Case

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—Anticipating another display of verbal fireworks between prosecution and defense attorneys, hundreds of persons today milled around in the corridors of Judge Blake's court in an effort to gain admission to the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Slelf, all facing conspiracy charges as the aftermath of the alleged kidnaping of the woman evangelist.

The first tilt of the day between opposing attorneys came when Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennis stated yesterday that defense witnesses were being corrupted.

Dennis said he had in mind the collection which was taken at Angelus temple several nights ago and turned over to two Mexican witnesses from Agua Prieta.

After a temporary lull, the warfare broke out again when the state vociferously objected when E. R. Mills, auditor of a San Francisco cafeteria, was asked if a Miss Rachel Wells, the woman Mrs. Slelf claims was to pose as "Miss X," was employed by his firm in 1924.

Mills was finally allowed to testify that his records did not show that such a woman was employed.

While Mrs. Elizabeth Frame, a close friend of Mrs. McPherson's was being examined, W. L. Gilbert, the evangelist's attorney, sought to introduce an autopsy report on the death of Ed Harrison, a diver, who died following his attempt to find the body of Mrs. McPherson, who at that time was thought drowned.

Davis was lost overboard from the liner Majestic on the morning of October 13. The events leading up to and following his tragic death were told today by Dr. J. C. H. Beaumont, ship's doctor of the liner, which has returned from Europe.

The ship had been a party of some sort in Davis' rooms the night preceding the tragedy. Finally, most of the guests left. It was almost daylight. At 5:15, a woman's scream was heard, attendants and passengers rushed to the Davis stateroom and found that the millionaire had fallen out of the port-hole. The ship was stopped and circled about for an hour, but no sign of the man could be found.

That was the story told at the

LAWYERS TO APPEAL LOVE PILL VERDICT

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27.—Attorneys for Ermil "Frenchy" Balanescu, convicted of manslaughter here last week in connection with the death of Dorothy Kirk, to whom he is alleged to have administered "love pills," are preparing to carry the case to the country for investigation of state and municipal affairs.

Balanescu late yesterday lost his fight for a new trial when the motion by his counsel was overruled.

The youthful medical student has thirty days in which to file his appeal.

SENATOR BESEIGED WITH MANY APPEALS TO PURIFY POLITICS

Reed Receives Letters
From Public And Private Sources

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Inspired by his activity in investigating the Indiana and Illinois senatorial campaigns, all America, apparently, had turned today to Senator James A. Reed, the "Missouri Cyclone," with appeals to purify politics, punish political despots and solve municipal problems.

A shower of requests for slush funds, private investigations and public prosecution overtook Reed here as he rested before resuming the federal inquiry into the Ku Klux Klan's activity in Indiana's senatorial race and the exact relation of Senator James E. Watson, Republican, of Indiana, to affairs of the hooded order. The appeals for Reed's intervention came from every section of the country, most of them being forwarded here from Chicago, Indianapolis and Kansas City, where he previously held sessions of his one-man senatorial slush inquiry.

The appeals asked Reed not only to investigate alleged corruption and slush funds in senatorial campaigns but for him to take his single-handed inquiry around the country for investigations of state and municipal affairs.

From Connecticut came the appeal for another senatorial campaign inquiry, which Reed declined because of the limited time before election day. From Oklahoma came a request for an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan's activity in the state elections, which Reed rejected for a similar reason.

These were "official" requests, while the remainder of the Missouri's mail carried "personal requests."

YOUTH NEAR DEATH FROM BULLET WOUND

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 27.—Herbert Schotts, 20, of Youngstown, is at the point of death in a hospital here today as the result of a bullet wound in his back.

Schotts, a member of the crew of a tugboat, was said by police to have been discharged by Captain J. H. Pringle, pilot of the boat, whereupon a dispute arose.

Pringle is being held by police but the case probably will go to federal jurisdiction, as the tug was moored to a vessel.

Costs of the proceedings were ordered to be paid by the association.

BELGIAN WINS AMERICAN HEIRESS

MOTHER, DAUGHTER COMMIT SUICIDE BY LEAPING TO DEATH

Jump Eleven Floors From
New York Hotel
In Pact

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Police said today that Miss Dorothy Warschauer, 30, who, with her mother, plunged to her death last evening from the eleventh floor of the Martha Washington Hotel before the eyes of thousands of horrified spectators, was at one time an inmate of an institution for the insane at Islip, N. Y.

Worry over her daughter's illness probably caused the mother, Mrs. Bertha Warschauer, 51, to make the death leap, according to a theory advanced to police by Dr. H. Schueman, the Warschauers' family physician.

Mother and daughter, stylishly dressed, arrived at the hotel at five o'clock in the afternoon. Just thirty minutes later, passersby in the street saw Mrs. Warschauer leap from the eleventh floor.

The body, turning and twisting in the air, crashed on top of an electric sign hung over the hotel entrance.

Thousands of pedestrians, attracted to the scene, were further horrified when the daughter smilingly stepped to the window and poised herself for the death leap. The spectators stood still in helpless fascination but Miss Marjorie La Plante, Montreal trained nurse, who occupied a room on the ninth floor, rushed to a small balcony in front of her window just as Miss Warschauer jumped.

The daughter's body struck this balcony and was impaled on a spike. With Miss Warschauer fighting and screaming to the nurse to "let her die," Miss La Plante held on to her grimly. Only a shred of flesh held the woman's body to the spike, however, and at last the tired nurse was forced to relax her grip.

The daughter was united with her mother in death as the body hurtled downward and struck the first body, hanging over the sign.

The Warschauer's lived in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Warschauer's brother, Andrew Heydman, declined today to throw any light on a note found in Mrs. Warschauer's room at the hotel, which read:

"My brother knows all about the money."

BEAT WITHROW!

If Xenia Central High football team had been waiting for the spirit to move it would have certainly moved Friday when citizens showed the proper spirit by furnishing one of the biggest high school football crowds ever to attend a game here.

They were rewarded by seeing the local athletes, with their goal line uncrossed this year, trounce the highly touted Troy eleven 26 to 0 in an interesting and spectacular exhibition. Troy had defeated Greenville 31 to 0 and Xenia beat Greenville only 29 to 0 which proved the visitors were shown no mean foes.

The spirit shown by Xenians in backing the club so generously inspired the sort of confidence that makes for winning teams. Now these enthusiastic supporters are echoing the high school cry: "Beat Withrow."

Coach Kolb's team plays Withrow High at Cincinnati Friday afternoon.

NEW IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27.—Master-General Harry S. New arrived here today to inspect the post office service of the local post office.

New will be the outstanding speaker at a Republican rally here tonight.

Trial of Ernest Garrison is scheduled to begin on November 15.

NEW VICTIM FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN HOME: ARREST MADE

Bloody Iron Bar Leads To Capture Of Suspects In Croy Case—Husband Finds Second
Victim Dead

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 27.—Following discovery of an iron bar covered with human hair and blood in an ash heap near the scene where Miss Lily Croy, 26, was killed by the clubber yesterday, police today took into custody a man said to be suffering from mental diseases. He was found living a block from the scene of the clubber's activities.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 27.—Discovery of another mysteriously murdered woman has brought this city to the verge of hysteria and caused extreme methods to be adopted in the hunt for the "clubber," to whom is accredited the atrocious murders of four other women and criminal attacks upon at least five others.

Mrs. Mary Alden, 47, is the latest victim in the series of shocking crimes. Her body, with the night clothes torn to shreds and with three bullets in the breast, was found by her husband, George W. Alden, when he returned from work late last night. She had been assaulted after a terrific encounter.

The death of Mrs. Alden differed from that of the four unfortunate others, who were clubbed to death and their bodies frightfully mutilated, ostensibly by a degenerate. In each of the previous eight asaults, a club was employed by the hand.

No fragment of evidence has been uncovered in the death yesterday of Lily Croy, 28, beautiful school teacher, whose mutilated body was found in the shadow of a school after the clubber had swooped upon her from a darkened ambush.

Rewards totaling $2,600 have been offered by civic organizations for capture of the madman. Inspector of Detectives Haas has been recalled from his vacation to assume charge of tracking the maniac.

With every citizen on the alert for the brute, Chief of Police Harry Jennings today expressed the fear that, due to extreme nervous tension, innocent persons might be too quick on the trigger and causelessly result. He issued a statement this morning asking citizens to remain calm.

Hundreds of American Legion members and Boy Scouts have volunteered for police duty. Last night every block of the city was patrolled by at least one guardian of the peace.

BEGAN YEAR AGO

The outrages began here last November, when the clubber beat the brains of two victims into pulp. He attacked two others, who recovered. For two weeks a reign of terror existed.

When one thousand former servicemen formed a vigilance committee and began patrolling the streets, the crimes temporarily ended.

The killer began his campaign again last January. Two more men were slain and three seriously assaulted. This series of assaults ended when police rounded up and reincarnated all patients from insane institutions.

CALL NEW JURORS IN MURDER TRIAL

LEBANON, O., Oct. 27.—Another special venire of fifty jurors reported to Judge Wright this morning in the trial of Charles E. "Tod" Garrison, 23, Franklin, O., charged jointly with his brother, Ernest, with the murder of Night Policeman James A. Benge at Franklin on the night of March 21.

The original venire of seventy-five jurors was exhausted with only eleven jurors being selected for the trial.

It was expected that the twelfth juror would be selected today and presentation of evidence in the case would proceed.

Trial of Ernest Garrison is scheduled to begin on November 15.

WOMAN RETURNED TO FACE ROBBERY CASE

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—Miss Myrtle Donovan, 25, was on her way to Perrysburg, O., today, where she is said to be wanted in connection with a $43,000 bond robbery from the office of Henry R. Rothe. She was arrested last night at the home of her mother, Miss Donovan and Walter Ratajek, now serving a term in the Ohio state penitentiary for the crime. Miss Donovan protested her innocence.

JUST LUCK
"Twas an ill wind that blew no one good," says Patrick Sullivan, truck driver.

Pat stepped from a local bank with his hands full of receipts, cancelled checks, a few good checks and other papers. A sudden gust of wind whipped the bundle from his hands. Every scrap of paper was recovered except an unendorsed check for $18.50. One man has tried to cash it yet, the bank said.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Central News today publishes a Buenos Aires dispatch stating that a revolutionary movement has broken out in the Brazilian states of Minas Gerais, Matto Grosso and Goias. Colonists are fleeing, fearing a fit of jealousy.

GREENE COUNTY CLUB MEMBERS TO BE PART OF JUNIOR EXHIBIT

Greene County boys and girls beef calf club members, are planning to exhibit their steers for the annual Junior Live Stock Show to be held in the public auditorium at Cleveland December 7-10.

Seventeen local club members will take part in the exhibition including Neal Talbot, who will exhibit his Hereford calf that won the beef calf championship of the state at the Ohio State Fair after securing the club championship of Greene County and the club championship at the state fair.

The first announcement of the show was made today by A. Z. Baker, president of the Cleveland Union Stock Yards, and general manager of the show.

The world's record price of $3.05 per pound for a baby beef steer made at the show last year by the grand champion purchased Hereford entered by Raymond Lefever of Clarksville, Ind., is expected to be broken this year, according to Mr. Baker.

Competition has become especially keen among Ohio entries according to the advance reports of county agents, and they are planning to use the next few weeks in putting the finishing touches on feeding and training the steers that will compete for the big list of honor awards and prizes.

This year's exhibition will be staged with the co-operation of the agricultural extension departments of the state universities in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. The organization directly responsible for the show is composed of Cleveland packers and live stock commission men and the Cleveland and national retail meat dealers associations. The show management is now taking up with the railroads the question of special rates for the thousands of visitors expected from the three states. A dozen committees have been named to arrange for the entertainment of the youthful exhibitors, care of their stock, the annual auction, the side line exhibits, prizes, special awards, special contests and other details.

What Tennessee Cities Have Discovered About Concrete Street Paving

Fifteen years ago some of the leading cities of Tennessee were just beginning to learn the merits of concrete street paving.

During this period traffic has grown tremendously. Many Tennessee cities have found out that only concrete will stand up under the loads and speeds of modern traffic. They have found out that concrete pavement costs almost nothing to maintain. They have learned that it is safe for all traffic, in any weather. And that this handsome pavement dresses up any community where used.

Tennessee cities today have a total of 1,500,000 square yards of this modern, permanent pavement. This will be greatly increased during 1926. Last year 27 of these cities placed contracts for additional concrete paving.

Concrete streets will bring new prosperity to any city or town.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

A LETTER OF INTEREST

To The Voters of Greene County

I want to state that I am in no way connected with what is known as the Gowdy-Marshall faction; in fact, I voted against Judge Gowdy for election to his first term, for the reason that I was under the impression that his election would mean delay in judicial proceedings. My experience with Judge Gowdy has convinced me that I was wrong in my surmise. In all my experience at the Bar I have never practiced before a more painstaking and conscientious judge, and one who gives those who were opposed to his election just as fair treatment as those who voted for him.

I think it is uncalled for and unwise for any faction to bring out a candidate against him for a second term. His conduct on the bench and his judicial findings have been such that he deserves to have a second term without the trouble and expense of a campaign. I think that any faction, men, or set of men, who will institute wholly unwarranted proceedings in the Probate Court in order to convey to the public, by innuendo, that Judge Gowdy is dishonest, such act is an outrage on public decency and deserves the condemnation of every well thinking man and woman.

The articles published by the Cedarville paper, in which the statement is made that Judge Gowdy is drawing a salary of $6,000.00 from the County, is in harmony with other statements of that paper—absolutely untrue and without foundation. Every one who is familiar with the compensation of judges of this County knows that the salary of the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas is only $3,700.00, and that the County only pays a small portion of this—$700.00, I think. And his other complaint, that Judge Gowdy goes off to other counties and neglects the business of this County, is wholly without foundation. From personal experience I know that the business of this County is not neglected; on the other hand, Judge Gowdy is prompt in assigning and hearing cases. Instead of any paper trying to censure him for going to other counties, this County should feel proud that we have a Judge in whose honesty and ability the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court has such confidence that he selects him to try cases in other counties, a duty which he must perform when called upon by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Gowdy is entitled to a second term, and the people of this County cannot afford to defeat Judge Gowdy.

Just such politics is what has brought into this country such conditions as prevail in Chicago and other cities; and it will continue until the good people of the country, by their votes, stamp their disapproval upon it.

The people of the County should be interested in TWO things:

FIRST: To have a man on the Common Pleas bench who is qualified and whose decisions will stand in the higher courts.

SECOND: To see to it that a man qualified for the position is not defeated by slander and dirty politics.

If there ever was a time in the history of the nation when fitness, in its broadest sense, was required of a judge that time is now. The capable, efficient and honest judge is one of the nation's most valuable assets. Judge Gowdy measures up to the highest standards required of a judge. It appears that Greene County is to witness opposition to Judge R. L. Gowdy for a second term for which he has been regularly nominated at the Republican Primary election last August; a right that has always been accorded to capable and efficient officials asking re-election as a reward for efficient service. There is no reason why this unwritten law of political custom should be reversed in Judge Gowdy's case; but every reason why it should be upheld by loyal support of his candidacy.

LIE'S STORY

The story of life from the cradle to the grave, was told exquisitely in music featuring the program of the Xenia Woman's Music Club, Midway afternoon. The Misses French and Margaret Steele were leaders and the second division under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. McGeevey, president of the music club gave a charming program.

Miss Jane Ninde, of Dayton, was guest of the club and added to the pleasure of the afternoon by her fine rendition of several piano numbers.

Miss Marjorie Street opened the program by playing Brahms' lovely "Cradle Song." This was followed by a group of three songs by Mrs. Graham Bryson, "Where Did You Come From, Baby Dear," "Buck," "Baby," Bertrand Brown, and "Sonny Boy," Pearl Durand.

The second group of songs by Miss Harriet McCarty took the meeting one step further in "H's Such a Little Feller," Dichtmont, and "Animal Crackers," Hageman.

Miss Marjorie Street appeared group of youth songs, with "Wendy's Music Box," Carrie Jacobs Bond, and "The Dancing Doll," Poldin.

Mrs. Raymond Wolf opened the group of your songs, with "When the Heart is Young," by Buck. ## "RISING UP" TIME

General Pershing told a meeting of World War veterans in Philadelphia a few nights ago that this country is inviting disaster by letting the army go some thousands below the pay strength and several more thousands below the authorized strength. He asked what was the sense of saving a few millions now and incurring the risk of having to spend billions in a time of emergency. He said the world was not as friendly, or as secure, as those who advocated a low army strength represented it as being, and that this was not a safe time to let defenses fall to pieces.

He turned, then, to the disorderly and lawless state of the times, and said the increase of lawlessness was a disgrace to the country. "How long this will continue," he said "will depend upon the people themselves. We may as well be warned of our fate unless good citizens rise up and demand a change."

Pershing is used to dealing with facts, and his words warrant attention, both as to military and civil defenses.

The cause of the two perils which he points out is the same, and it is opposite of that "rising up" which he demands as a necessity to a cure.

A defective system of military defense and a defective civic character upon which the evil of lawlessness grows, come, alike, from a "letting down." Something has happened to the morale, since the days when a determined and unite! sentiment supported Pershing in his campaign overseas.

It is like Pershing to demand a "rising up." It could be hoped that in this particular he still carried the power to command.

MENTAL DISARMAMENT

"Mental disarmament" was recommended by a speaker at a Piqua, Ohio, meeting Tuesday night as the only method of getting rid of any feeling of antagonism between the business man of the town and the business man of the rural section of the community, which is what the farmer really is. By mental disarmament, was meant a laying aside of prejudice and a willingness to accept the other fellow on a basis of confidence in his good intentions until one is convinced of the contrary. The speaker—a practical farmer living on a farm—gave testimony as to how successful this proved in his own case and convinced his auditors that sympathetic understanding is the only solution of such antagonism.

Some day mental disarmament will be applied to international relationships and not until this comes about will there follow material disarmament on a basis of sincerity. Such material disarmament to date has been largely fictitious, agreements being reached along certain lines, the parties to the agreements then turning their attention to outdoing their possible opponents in future wars in more modern methods of warfare. When the people of the nations learn to respect the people of other nations as their equals, regardless of varying customs, then and only then will disarmament become real.

Each person really interested in doing his infinitesimal bit toward bringing about universal peace can best advance that cause by putting himself in a sympathetic attitude toward the people of other nations through seeking to understand — although he may not agree with their viewpoints. Having once effected his own mental disarmament he will be an active missionary for the spread of that attitude and when it shall have become the attitude of the majority either numerically or in influence, then material disarmament will inevitably follow.

GERMANY MAKES GOOD

According to Jacob Gould Sherman, American Ambassador to Berlin, Germany is prepared to meet her $300,000,000 obligation to the allies during the coming fiscal year with the same promptness that marked her payments last year.

This is good news, and there is no doubt that Germany, with her industrious people at work and free from heavy military burdens, is well on the road to rehabilitation. But it cannot be taken as proof that everything is rosy and that prosperity is coming easily.

It must be borne in mind that Germany has floated heavy loans abroad—and in financial affairs "abroad" nowadays means the United States. So some of the money Germany has borrowed in America has gone to pay reparations to the allies, and in time will come back to the United States in the form of payments on account of war loan settlements.

Germany's present Dawes plan payments are the minimum. In a few years the annual charge will amount to $625,000,000, and the interest on money borrowed in the meantime will have to be met. Germany's condition is good, but some of her hardest problems lie ahead. Her present promptness cannot be taken as proof that from now on life in Germany is going to be soft.

Oh Me! Oh My!

1906-TWENTY YEARS AGO-1926

A disaster occurred that cost ninety lives—chicken lives—the fowls being the property of Ed Lighthiser. The loss resulted when a brooding machine in his green house burned.

The crop of apples this year, for this section of the country in general, is almost unprecedented.

Hereafter every child in the public schools will be required to provide himself with a drinking cup. It is an anti-germ edict.

In the Murray Comedy Co. the management obtained the best week-end company that has ever appeared in Xenia.

The Theatre

A roly-poly figure has assisted some players into the movies; it has skidded many more completely out of pictures. Thomas R. Curran, of International News Service, says:

Roscoe Arbuckle, at one time the leading film comedian, and the late John Bunny were boosted to stardom by their expansive girth. Walter Hiers, Hughie Mack and the late Willard Louis were also aided, rather than handicapped, by their roundness. "Tiny" Goforth, playing Hal Roach and Warner Brothers' comedies, isn't held back at all by his 400 pounds. But if a player in romantic parts shows an incipient double chin, he or she, topples from the heights like a dislodged flowerpot.

Mary Miles Minter, a star at 18, admitted that difficulty in controlling her weight induced her retirement from the films. Nita Naldi, once an irresistible siren, has had long flight out of pictures against superfluous poundage. She is reported now to be preparing to return to the screen. Barbara LaMarr's fight against fat so weakened her that she sickened and died.

Recognizing the inevitable and unpleasant fate of actors and actresses who lose their lissome silhouettes, several producers have inserted "weight clauses" in contracts. If a player passes a certain standard weight, the contract is automatically voided. Usually, however, the problem of weight is set by tact agreement.

Pola Negri, weighing 122 pounds has set 125 as her maximum. Bebe Daniels hovers around 120 and Clara Bow varies from 100 to 105. Lois Wilson and Florence Vidor maintain their weight at 117 pounds. Esther Ralston weighs 125 and hopes to stay there. Joan Crawford, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player, exercises three times a day to keep her weight at 120 pounds. Renee Adoree, who is featured in the new Cosmopolitan production, "The Flaming Forest," feels that she must keep below 115. When her weight starts creeping up, the little French actress goes on an orange juice diet.

Pauline Starke diets regularly to remain at 115 pounds. Once every two months, for a ten-day period, she eats nothing but hard-boiled eggs, tomatoes and milk. Carmel Myers relies upon the starch bath, taken once every four days, as a curative measure for fat. She weighs 125 pounds. Mary Philbin and Laura La Plante, the Universal stars, weigh 105 and 110, respectively, and they would nullify their contracts if they became more than five pounds heavier.

Central Gridders To Fight Withrow By Air Game

COACH KOLB'S PETS EXPECT VICTORY BY OVERHEAD PLAYING

Famed Air Attack Best Bef—Goal Still Uncrossed

When the referee's whistle starts Withrow and Central High School elevens charging against each other in the great horseshoe stadium of the Cincinnati high school Friday afternoon, hopes of the local "wonder team" will rest on its fabled aerial attack.

Central High, on the strength of five successive victories this year, may be installed as a slight favorite. Xenia is one of the few teams in the state at present that can respond to the roll call of the unbeaten and more than that the local goal line is still uncrossed.

Withrow and Xenia have never met on the gridiron and so the Cincinnati Tigers are a somewhat unknown quantity. The Queen City team's season record in 1926 has been none too impressive but the down-state eleven has been meeting a higher class of teams.

The Friday game will begin at 2 o'clock Eastern Standard or Cincinnati time, which will be 1 o'clock Xena time.

Coach Victor Kolb counted noses this week and finds all his men in fine shape. The coach is anxious to take his entire squad of twenty players to Cincinnati and for this reason offers of automobile conveyances will be gladly accepted, he announces.

The local squad is easing off in its preparation for the game. Coach Kolb is goading his players to more serious efforts in the way of practice as he fears the Tigers will prove a troublesome foe.

A win over Withrow will allow Xenia to enjoy the distinction of having achieved the greatest victory of the season. At any rate the local eleven is determined to show the Cincinnati boys some samples of the ingredients of a high-powered offensive style of play that turned back the O. S. and S. O. Home, Greenfield, Greenville, Washington C. H., and Troy in successive this season.

BOWLING

McCurran Brothers topped the Arcade from first position in the Xenia Bowling League race by taking the odd game in three in a match Tuesday night. Arcade won the first game but dropped the final two by close scores. Jordan and Regan amassed the most pins for the winners while Al Regan, with a series of 627, was high man of the match. ## GREATEST GRID GAMES OF THE PAST

MAULBETSCHE BATTERS HARVARD LINE

1914—Harvard 7, Michigan 0.

Johnny Maulbetsch split Harvard's mighty lines to pieces, hammered yard after yard off tackle, made first down after first down and still the famous Haughton machine won that memorial game of October 31, 1914, because the Crimson third held on the very threshold of the goal line.

Although Michigan was defeated 7 to 0, that game has gone down in history as furnishing one of the most spectacular exhibitions of straight line plunging ever witnessed.

Maulbetsch was superb that afternoon. Running low and hard, he dived through the Harvard line.

Twice he packed the pigskin from mid-field to the five-yard-line and then was stopped.

Harvard won when Tacks Hardwick scored a touchdown in the second quarter. Hardwick also kicked goal.

THIRTY-THREES TO PLAY PIQUA ELEVEN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Piqua has been scheduled to provide the "Thirty-threes" with a football game Sunday afternoon at Cincinnati Ave. Park following the unexpected cancellation of the Columbus Firemen Spikes Wednesday morning.

A comparison of various records this season among independent football teams in this section tends to make Piqua a slight favorite over Xenia Sunday.

This conclusion is arrived at by mathematics. The locals could do no better than tie the Dayton Red Wings, Piqua and Sidney played a scoreless tie, Sidney defeated the Red Wings 13 to 0, indicating the Red Wings, 13 to 0, indicating well known under dog Sunday on the basis of form.

Piqua's last game with a Xenia eleven three years ago resulted in a 3 to 0 defeat for the locals and avenging that defeat is the goal of the "Thirty-threes."

The local squad will hold a signal drill and practice at Cincinnati Ave. Park Thursday night from 7 to 8:30 o'clock, it is announced.

It has been previously intimated the Zanesville offer to Xenia for a game January 8 could not be accepted because of a game previously scheduled on that date, but only tentative arrangements had been made with Roosevelt High of Dayton and Zanesville has been substituted.

This disclosure is of major interest to local basketball followers for Zanesville, coached by Gail "Fuzzy" Vanorsdall, former Xenia

Board of Governors of Greene County Library, Xenia, Ohio.

As a resident of Beavercreek Twp., I have been deeply interested in the Greene County Library District to be voted on next Tuesday.

While we of the rural districts are enjoying the past few years many privileges not heretofore possible, it seems to me that not one of the advantages we now enjoy is of more importance to us than a library made so easily accessible. When we stop to think how much such a library would mean, compared to other lately acquired privileges that we value, especially when we consider the comparatively trivial cost of such library service, we wonder why we have deprived ourselves of it so long.

After enjoying for a few years the benefits of a library arrangement of this kind, we would, I believe, be just as reluctant to part with it as with our telephones, our rural mail delivery, our radios, etc., which cost many times more.

Beavercreek Township is proud of her record in educational matters, and I expect to see a big majority vote here next Tuesday for the Greene County Library District.

Yours truly,

E. J. FERGUSON,

66 PREPARE FOR A TOUGH WINTER

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

PREPARE FOR A TOUGH WINTER

Have plenty of heavies within reach. It's going to be a rough old winter. Mark that down!

Every fall we hear of a lot of signs that hint at a hard winter but they are usually the bunk. If all of them were placed end to end they would lie and lie and lie from New York to San Francisco. I have made a careful study this fall, however, and find that we really are going to have some mighty terrible winter.

Have you noticed the eggshells? Notice them. They are thicker than they have been in years. Everything is preparing for winter. Even Jack Dempsey shook himself and got busy and made enough to keep him through a hard winter.

Department store clerks tell me that there is more fur on coats this year than there has been in years. They say wool socks are thicker than they have ever known them, and that spiders are spinning their webs nearer hot air registers than ever before.

You have talked with the barbers? Talk with one, if you can get him to keep still long enough to give you a chance, and ask him what he thinks about a hard winter. He will tell you that whiskers are thicker and warmer than he has ever found them. Even bald headed men are growing hair to prepare for the cold.

Go down street any evening and notice the flappers riding in flivvers with young sheiks. Notice how closely they hug to the young sheiks in an effort to keep warm. See if your furnace hasn't taken on a coat of rust.

Among the statues in the state house yard in Columbus I see that General Grant has put his hands in his pockets and that General Sherman has on a pair of gloves made from Columbus smoke and dust.

And last but not least, the gas company is talking of an increase in gas rates.

MY TREAT

"I wouldn't mind her treating," Said young Harry Proctor, "If whenever I'd treat I'd get paid, like a doctor."

Perhaps you have some sign of a hard winter. What have you? Mail 'em in and tell us about them. We'll print them on this page and everyone will read them. By the way, better get your coal in.

TERRIBLE.

A monkey scratched To get a flea; Said he, "That's a New one on me."

We heard of a fellow in Springfield who is nine feet tall, showing to what lengths some people will go to to get out of that town. Anyway they have no classified page there as good as this one. You can phone your ads and charge them.

What did you do with your summer wages?

LUTHERANS PLAN TO HOLD ANNIVERSARY OF LUTHER SERVICE

First Lutheran Church, W. Main St., will take part in the 409th anniversary of the Lutheran denomination with special services, next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Carl Engelhard has announced. An illustrated lecture will be given on the life of Martin Luther by Dr. Paul Heisey, of Wittenberg College, Springfield.

Four hundred and nine years ago Martin Luther inaugurated the modern era of the world's history with his ninety-five theses which he nailed to the door of Castle Church in Wittenberg, Germany, Oct. 31, 1517. This event, which is celebrated each year by the Lutheran Church, marks the beginning of the Protestant movement, which influence has been world wide.

One of the outstanding principles of the Reformation for which Luther fought was the necessity for the common people to have the Scriptures in their own tongue. Erasmus, in the preface of his Greek New Testament, published in 1516, had expressed the hope that the Bible might be translated into the languages of all peoples. Luther gave to the German people the New Testament in the vernacular in 1522, which was the basis of the work of Tyndale who protected the first printed English New Testament in 1526.

Another great principle of Luther is that of "justification by faith." Reviving the old Pauline doctrine long obscured by medieval practices he heralded the message that "Salvation is 'not by works lest every man should boast it the gift of God.'" The doctrine of the universal priesthood of believers is still another contribution of Luther. Every Christian he taught has access to the throne of grace without the mediation of any man. Every man also has the right of private judgment which assured true liberty.

CHAPTER 38 HAVANA

While Luella, in unusually soft and romantic mood, dreamt in the moon-flooded patio of the hotel, the subject of her thoughts was considerably nearer than she had imagined.

Philip Andover, indeed, was walking along the sea-wall of Havana at that very moment with none other than her uncle's secretary, Mary Forrest.

Lots of other people walked there, too, in the enchanted moon light; for Cubans disdain sleep, and love to be abroad at night time.

"Suppose the Wades return earlier than they intended?" suggested Mary rather tremulously, and feeling greatly daring. "Suppose—"

"Suppose they found me on your balcony?" laughed her companion, holding her more tightly by the arm. "That would be even worse than this, wouldn't it?" And then he added, giving her a warm look. "Don't worry, dear. Even if they do get back to the hotel a little sooner, they'll only think you've gone to bed."

"But if Mrs. Wade or Luella should tap on my door—?"

"In that case, he replied, still gay and smiling, "we should just have to hear the dragonesses. We'd have to tell them that we love each other, you and I. You wouldn't mind so awfully, would you, Mary?"

She thrilled at that. He hadn't said anything definitely yet—of marriage. But she trusted him. Oh, yes, she did. She always did.

"Now don't worry any more. Let us be happy," he was saying softly.

The sparkling night enfolded them. Other couples strolled along the sea-walls, joyous as themselves, wrapped up in one another.

"My sister-in-law is staying at the hacienda. I go there tomorrow morning," Philip said.

"Then we won't—we won't be seeing you again?" Mary couldn't keep the sharp anxiety from her query.

The man beside her laughed, well pleased. Her tone had shown her feelings clearly.

"You do care for me then? You would miss me?"

"Yes, of course."

He said: "The farm is only a matter of thirty miles away. It won't take long to run in by motor-car." Then he added: "As a matter of fact, I'm rather counting on your coming to the hacienda. Mr. Wade is doing a novel with a Cuban setting, and the place would be invaluable to him for local color."

"You're sure that you'll be there?" asked Mary, with a rising glow of warm anticipation—even though she didn't like his sister-in-law.

"Of course. I understand the surroundings are quite lovely. You will come, won't you, Mary?"

She nodded.

"If the Wades will take me."

"Ah, that was the real reason I invited them. Poor Mrs. Wade is rather tiresome, though I quite like Cyrus." He gave her arm a tiny pressure.

She inquired, tentatively:

"Do you think your sister-in-law will want us?"

His face clouded.

"Oh, she isn't such a bad sort. You don't have to see much of her. Yes, of course she'll welcome you, as friends of mine."

"And will you be staying there for long, yourself?" The Wades were restless folk, and in a few days' time she and her employer and his wife might be setting sail for Jamaica, for all she knew of

Night Coughing Stopped In Fifteen Minutes

Results Guaranteed or Money Back

No matter how long you have suffered from night coughing, or how many other remedies you have tried without success—speedy relief is now guaranteed with remarkable new prescription called Thoxine. Works on newly discovered principle different from ordinary cough mixtures. One swallow is all that's needed. No chloroform or other harmful drugs. Guaranteed to stop either night coughing or sore throat in fifteen minutes or no cost. For sore throat it is far superior to gargles. Mrs. Klontz was born in West Virginia, but had spent most of her life in Ross Township the county until the death of her husband in 1919 since which time she had made her home with her children. She is survived by three daughters and a son—Mr. Bland, Mrs. William Stittsworth of Grape Grove; Mrs. Albert Dr. Witt of South Charleston and Edwin Klontz of near Jamestown, and a brother in Fayette County.
